Where the Field Meets the Forest: Tick Safety On & Off the Farm

Wednesday August 20, 2025; 6:00 - 7:00pm.

Those that live, work and recreate near tick habitats are at high risk for bites and contracting a tick-borne disease. Farmers, livestock and pets are prime targets! This FREE, online session will cover tick ID, their life cycles, the disease-causing pathogens they carry, bite prevention tips, survey results and more. Preregistration required. Zoom Link will be emailed after registering. For more information, contact the presenter, Cheryl Sullivan (Assistant Research Professor, UVM CALS), at cfrank@uvm.edu; (802) 656-5434 Register HERE (or scan code at the top).
