

COMMUNITIES OF PRACTICE

Community-Engaged Learning

Students build skills while completing much-needed work for external organizations. Some students will work as day-to-day interns while some will complete discrete projects--it all depends on what our program partners need. No matter the format, students work alongside professionals in their fields, doing real, impactful work in the community.

Our program model is ideal for students who are taking a first step into work-based learning, or who want to work with multiple community partners and professionals.

Sustainable Urban Planning

Work on sustainable planning & transportation projects that match your interests and academic goals.

Nonprofits & Social Change

Vermont has 6,276 nonprofit organizations. How will you get involved? Work directly with organizations that are working to positively impact Vermont's communities.

Environmental Stewardship & Restoration

Work alongside professionals from around Vermont to further the stewardship and protection of Vermont's natural resources into the future.

Legislative Internship Program

Work with legislators to do a range of work: respond to constituents, policy research, event and logistics support.

Cultural Heritage & the Liberal Arts

Focus on the impact of museums, archives, libraries, and other public access cultural institutions on and within local communities.

Student Legal Services

Student Legal Services provides UVM students with free legal advice. Interns for the SLS program play a crucial role in the functioning of the program--working with consulting attorneys to intake and process legal concerns.
